

Elton Consulting provides trusted advice and practical solutions to all levels of government, the private sector and community organisations.

We understand how urban planning, sustainability, consultation, social planning and healthy design all combine to create places where people want to live.

Our services include:

- » Communications and engagement
- » Indigenous engagement and remote planning
- » Social and affordable housing
- » Urban and regional planning
- » Strategy and policy
- » Social infrastructure and community facilities planning

We work collaboratively with clients to provide robust, clever and practical solutions across infrastructure, health, property, transport, community services and housing. Our service is unique - we integrate engagement and communications, social sustainability, planning and policy to drive efficiency and innovation across your projects and teams.

Since 2018, we have been part of Veris, an ASX-listed surveying, professional advisory and spatial solutions company, increasing our service offerings and providing a national platform across Australia.

COMMUNICATIONS AND ENGAGEMENT

Elton Consulting is recognised as one of Australia's leading community and stakeholder engagement and strategic communications firms. Our team collaborates with you to develop a tailored engagement approach to address your project needs – ensuring workable and meaningful solutions every time. We work proactively to recognise the complexities of different stakeholder groups and deliver communications and engagement strategies that are inclusive and accessible.

We bring insight and experience that enables us to uncover key issues and opportunities during the engagement process. We are skilful in working with a range of stakeholders from local communities to all levels of government and industry.

STRATEGIC COMMUNICATIONS AND ADVICE, COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND ENGAGEMENT

Our team successfully plans and delivers community relations, strategic communications and advice, and engagement services for key infrastructure and development projects around Australia. We work with you to manage all communications, consultation activities and feedback; communicating clearly and consistently to help you tell your story in the most effective and efficient way possible.

Our unique insight into the political and community landscape ensures our communication advice is relevant, strategic and tailored to your needs. We work with you and your project stakeholders to manage risk, facilitate delivery and avoid unexpected costs.

INDIGENOUS ENGAGEMENT AND REMOTE PLANNING

Our team has extensive hands on experience and knowledge of culturally appropriate indigenous engagement and consultation. We have worked with a wide range of communities from Central Australia through to Arnhem Land and the Tiwi Islands to collaborate, understand and ensure genuine engagement and project outcomes are met whilst being culturally sensitive and considered.

SOCIAL AND AFFORDABLE HOUSING

Affordable housing is a complex policy area, characterised by different, and changeable approaches across all three levels of government. Drawing on extensive, contemporary knowledge of the affordable housing industry across Australia and targeted research, we have advised a number of private and government sector clients on social and affordable housing development options and strategy.

URBAN AND REGIONAL PLANNING

Elton Consulting's specialist planners have extensive experience in both the private and public sector and highly developed skills navigating the complexities surrounding the planning framework in Queensland.

We deliver technical and statutory planning services, and in Queensland focus on strategic land use planning, development contributions and property advice, planning policy, master planning and research, and project facilitation.

STRATEGY AND POLICY

Drawing on our expertise in strategy and delivery, government directions and organisational and service trends, we collaborate and assist our clients to develop strategies, directions, structures and delivery models that work well in practice.

Our services include policy analysis and development, strategic and business planning, organisational strategy and change, service planning and program review, governance support and advice, and sector reform.
